UND

UNDISCIPLINED. adj. 1. Not subdued to regularity and order. To be undisciplined withal is an argument of natural infirmity, if it be necessary; but if it be not, it signifies an undisciplined and unmortified spirit. Taylor's Rule of Holy Living.

Divided from those climes where art prevails; Undisciplin'd by precepts of the wife; Our inborn passions will not brook controul; We follow nature. Philips.

2. Untaught; un instructed. A gallant man had rather fight to great disadvantages in the field, in an orderly way, than skuffle with an undisciplin'd rabble. K. Charles.

Dry is a man of a clear head, but few words; and gains the same advantage over Puzzle, that a small body of regular troops would gain over a numberless, undisciplin'd militia. Spectator, N. 477.

UNDISCOVERABLE. adj. Not to be found out. He was to make up his accounts, and by an easy, undiscoverable cheat, he could provide against the impending distresses. Rogers.

UNDISCOVERED. adj. Not seen; not desir'd; not found out. Coming into the falling of a way, which led us into a place, of each side whereof men might easily keep themselves undiscovered, I was encompassed suddenly by a great troop of enemies. Sidney.

When the griefs of Job were exceeding great, his words accordingly to open them were many: howbeit, still unto his seeming they were undiscovered. Hobbes.

Time glides, with undiscover'd haste; The future but a length behind the past. Dryden.

By your counsels we are brought to view A rich and undiscover'd world in you. Dryden.

In such passages I discover'd some beauty yet undiscover'd. Dryden.
